15 NOVEMBER 2026 - THIRTY-THIRD SUNDAY OF THE YEAR

'The kingdom of heaven will be like a man
going on a journey, who called his servants and entrusted to them his property.

To one he gave five talents,
to another two,
to another one,
to each according to his ability.

Then he went away….'

(from Matthew 25:14-30)

The warmest of welcomes to Fr Loreto Tabone, arriving from Gozo around midnight on Monday/Tuesday this week and staying in the Parish House till early Sunday morning. He will be the guest of honour at our first St Mary Magdalene's Fish and Chip Friday Night – this Friday, 20 November, at 5.30pm in St Mary Magdalene's Hall. (Please order via Yvonne – 07910 384490) before Wednesday.

A Warm welcome to the 9.30am Mass at St John's to our P7 Confirmation candidates who will be enrolled in our Confirmation programme during the Mass.

Tonight, at 6.45pm in St John's Hall – there will be the second St John's Open Parish Meeting of the Year…we do hope as many parishioners as possible will come as we look at, and reflect on, what's been happening in our parish and community -and plan for the coming months…as always, it will be followed at 8.30pm by a buffet/party with lots of good things to eat and drink….

World Day of the Poor – Our parishes will hold a leaving collection at Mass this weekend to mark one of Pope Francis' initiatives, the World Day of the Poor. The collection will support the Care Van, run by Bethany Christian Trust, which provides food, hot drinks and practical support to people experiencing homelessness and hardship in Edinburgh city centre. You can also donate online at bit.ly/dayforpoor.

Catholic Education Week – The annual special collection for Catholic Education Week is next Sunday 22 November. The Archdiocesan Catholic Education Week Mass is at 11:00am on Thursday 26 November at St Mary's Cathedral.

Next weekend is also the Feast of Christ the King, one of our two Nametag Sundays (along with the Feast of Pentecost) – a chance discreetly to learn the names of some of our fellow parishioners, not least that of the person whom you don't feel any longer you can ask…a community becomes a true community when we make an effort to imitate the God who calls each of us by our name….

November Coffee Morning - Maria Igoe writes: 'The November Coffee Morning will be held on Monday 16 November in St John's Parish Hall at 10.30am. Donations will be given to 'SIGHTSAVERS' - They are working in Sierra Leone to help protect families from river blindness, caused by blackfly bites. A person can be bitten by blackflies on average every 45 seconds. That's hundreds of painful bites every day, and with every bite, the risk of blindness increases. Failure to treat blackfly bites promptly, can result in blindness. Your gift could help provide life-changing antiparasitic medication that protects people from river blindness. Please come along and enjoy tea, coffee and home baking in the company of parishioners and friends. Thank you.'

NOVEMBER BEREAVEMENT MASSES - Our second November BEREAVEMENT MASS will take place this Monday 16 November 2026 at 7.00pm at St. John's. These are gentle and beautiful candlelit Masses in which we remember our dead - and have the opportunity to light a candle for them. Forms are still available from the back of both churches for you to complete with the names of those you would like remembered and read out. The completed forms should be placed in the boxes provided. Alternatively, please email the same information ASAP to Chris Jones, who is kindly collating the lists - chrisjones442@hotmail.com

Sing-along returns this Thursday 19 November

2.00pm-4.00pm – St Mary Magdalene's church hall.

Teas, coffees and CHOCOLATE biscuits, Singing together, music quiz and banter.
New participants welcome. - No audition. Turn up, ready to sing or just to enjoy the group.
Music by Mary Bainbridge, technology by Jen Morris, presented by Kate Fulton

Our next Baptismal Preparation Course will take place Thursday 26 November and Thursday 3 December at 7.30pm in the Parish House.*
If you would like to enrol for it, please make contact with Fr Jock.

Friday 27 November – 7.00pm – St John's Church

St Andrew's Night Concert

The news you have all been waiting for – the annual St Andrew's night Concert is back, with its usual star-studded line up of entertainers! The lineup includes:

The Feast of Life Choir – songs of all types for all ages - Jeremy Thorp and friends – good music with a swing - Drouthy Neebors – Scottish folk music to set your toes tapping - And of course, the mighty St John's School choir

And you get all that for free – no admission charge!
There will be opportunities to make donations and to buy raffle tickets, both on the night and beforehand.
Half the proceeds will go towards supporting the care plan for the St John's cello teacher currently undergoing treatment for cancer with the other half going towards helping the people of Nepal, particularly the children, after the terrible floods; the media may have lost interest but the recovery process will take a long time.
We have lots of fabulous raffle prizes and, from next weekend, you will have the chance to buy your tickets at Mass and at other venues.

A New Youth Club for Our Parishes

Myriam Ares Gadea writes: 'St John's and St Mary Magdalene's are starting a new Youth Club for young people aged 12 to 17, and we would love parents to help shape it.
The club is being organised by Myriam, a member of our parish community. Before it begins, she would love to hear your thoughts and suggestions about the needs you see in your children, and how a Youth Club could be of help to them.
Our hope is that your children, and their friends, will want to join in: doing useful things for the community, learning something new, exploring their own interests and, of course, having fun together.
The Youth Club is also a space open to parents. Whether you would like to share an idea, teach a skill, help at a session or simply be involved in your own way, you are warmly welcome.
Please speak to me, Myriam, after Mass in the Church Hall or send me a WhatsApp on 07541 174840.'

SAINT OF THE WEEK – St Margaret of Scotland (1045-1093)

Secondary Patron of Scotland – Anniversary: 16 November

"A pearl, precious in faith and works" - Bishop Turgot, St Margaret's spiritual director.

Margaret is one of relatively few medieval saints to have benefited from a near contemporary Life written by someone who knew her well. It was commissioned by her daughter Matilda from her confessor, Turgot, prior of Durham and then bishop of St Andrews. It conforms to the general pattern of saints' Lives, but her personality comes through. She was the youngest of four children of Edward the Atheling, son of Edmund Ironside, king of Wessex, who had taken refuge in Hungary from the Danish invaders of England. She was born probably in Hungary, and she received a good education there, developing an appreciation of beautiful books and clothes.

In 1057 Edward the Confessor, king of England from 1042 to 1066 (and saint), summoned her father back to England. He planned to make him heir to the throne of England, but Edward the Atheling died soon after arriving back there. This led to the dispute over the succession on Edward the Confessor's death, resolved by the Norman Conquest and the accession of William the Conqueror. Margaret was no longer safe in England and followed her brother to Scotland. There she was welcomed by King Malcolm III Canmore, who married her in about 1070 in the palace of Dunfermline (the capital of Scotland until 1603). They lived happily together until his death (which immediately preceded hers), and she bore him six sons and two daughters. She proved, according to Bishop Turgot's "Life of Margaret, Queen of Scotland," a civilizing influence at the somewhat rough Scottish court. She also promoted adoption of Roman practices in such matters as observance of Lent and Easter and keeping Sundays as a day of abstinence from work. She revived the monastery of lona, which had fallen into decay, and built hostels on either side of the River Forth for pilgrims to St Andrews. She developed the priory of Dunfermline, founded by Malcolm, which became the royal burial place: it houses the tombs of twenty-two Scottish kings and queens, including Robert the Bruce.

Her life was devoted to the care of her husband, her children, and the poor, but she found time for reading and became an accomplished needlewoman. Malcolm never learned to read, but he appreciated her books as beautiful objects. (A pocket edition of the Gospels, a Life of St Cuthbert that belonged to her, and a Psalter that may have done still survive.) He was killed, with one of their younger sons, at the battle of Alnwick against William II of England. Margaret was terminally ill when she heard the news, despite efforts to keep it from her. She accepted it as the will of God. His body was brought home, and she was buried beside him after dying on 16 November 1093.

A popular cult soon developed, but it was a further century and a half — by which time canonizations were reserved to the Holy See — before Pope Innocent IV called for an inquiry into her life and miracles and canonized her in 1250. When Dunfermline was sacked by the English in 1560, her body and Malcolm's were rescued and taken to Philip II's monastery/palace of the Escorial, near Madrid. Her head had been separated, as was often done to allow more widespread veneration and was taken first to Edinburgh and then to the English College at Douai. She was made a patron of Scotland in 1673.

from Paul Burns - Butler's Saint for the Day - Liturgical Press (2007)

O God, who made Saint Margaret of Scotland remarkable for her outstanding charity toward the poor, grant that through her intercession and example we may reflect the image of Your divine goodness among all people.

Roz Britton, from the Drum Riding for the Disabled Association, writes: 'We are a charity that has helped tens of thousands of adults and young people across Edinburgh and the Lothians since it was founded in 1959. We desperately need raffle prizes for our annual Christmas carol fundraising concert. I wonder if any parishioners might like to donate? Vouchers, Christmas hampers, nice toiletries, wine or chocolates, all would be extremely gratefully received. All money raised will help us to feed and care for the horses and fund the vital, therapeutic work of the centre. If people would like to donate, they can contact me on my email address: roz.britton12@gmail.com. Thank you.'

Caring for Creation

Laudato Si' with Jane Mellett

The Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate's JPIC Commission is continuing its series of online workshops on the subject of "Caring for our Common Home". Jane Mellett, the facilitator, has extensive experience in teaching subjects relating to eco spirituality and Laudato Si', and a specific interest in how faith communities can contribute to addressing the environmental crises our world currently faces. Each of her workshops focuses on a section of Laudato Si': although the format is a series, participants are free to dip in and out of the workshops. The next two dates are 17 November and 15 December (both Tuesdays) and the workshops will take place on Zoom from 7 to 8:30 p.m. To sign up, email communications@oblates.ie or call/WhatsApp 05791160404, or you can complete this form: https://shorturl.at/yQB5z

Prayers for COP31

COP31, the latest United Nations Climate Change Conference, began in Turkey on Monday and will finish on Friday 20 November. In its series of prayers for the event attendees and the world, Eco Congregation Scotland has now reached day 4 (at the time of writing) and has composed additional reflections and intentions with themes around the full 12 days of the event. Day 4 – on the subject of resilient cities and the built environment – is below (you may be on day 5, 6 or 7 by the time you see this!) and you can visit the Eco Congregation Scotland website for the full set: https://ecocongregationscotland.org/cop31-anatalya-100-words-today/

God with us, God with Earth, bless with the justice of shade, the healing of trees and the refreshment of waters, all those great communities where people find both home and work in our day; that even as this crisis of nature and climate continues, which our species has knowingly perpetuated, our cities may unite to turn a corner of hope and resilience. In them may security and sanctuary join hands. May our deepest needs both for beauty and nourishment be given highest priority, alongside shelter and prosperity for all who work that our cities may flourish by the preaching and living of your Gospel.

Eco tip - We are fortunate enough to have lots of green spaces (like nearby Figgate Park) in our own city, and there are also ways you can make your indoor space greener using plants that do well even in areas that are more confined or might not have much like. Snake plants, peace lilies and small succulents are all good choices and some even have air-purifying properties. (If you have pets, just remember to check that your plants aren't toxic to them – such as lilies are to cats.)

Fr Jock writes: 'There is no reflection this week by 'my Northumberland friend' but we hope 'normal service' will be resumed in the near future…'

To the soul there is hardly anything more healing than friendship.

Thomas Moore

Be still, be aware, be at peace – and listen to your depths

Beauty in the Human Soul

While I find inspiration in beautiful things I don't feel I have to own them. To gaze out across mountain and valley on a Spring morning, to stand within a magnificent building, to look up at the silent stars light years away from us, or to be moved to quiet tears by a piece of music is to have the soul enlarged; to discover new depths in our being; to be gracefully propelled into a totally new awareness of what is around us.

But we can also recognise beauty in the human soul, in the goodness and integrity of another human being, and this discovery also enlarges our spirit and refreshes our vision. The writer A C Benson said, "I feel more and more that the instinct for beauty – spiritual and moral as well as natural – is the most trustworthy of all instincts and the surest sign of the nearness of God.

From Peter Millar: Here For Each Other: thoughts for our shared journey

Trust in God (and in the being which is maintained by him) does not, then, do away with death; but it makes death such that it opens the way to greater fulness of life…
The greater the faith with which one allows death to carry one off, the more will death introduce one to some individually heighted form of existence…
